Lauga Samoa Feiloaiga

Fa'alupega is often the first building block of a Samoan lauga (speech). When addressing a gathering of people, it is custom for the speaker to acknowledge all the other matai in the room, to greet each of them not just by title name, but with an acknowledgement of their village and recitation of how their village's titles fit together.

My grandfather was a diligent note-keeper. He was a faiava, which means he lived with my grandmother in her village (rather than his own), and he kept several notebooks worth of hand-written records on her family's history and titles.. This grandfather was also a gifted orator. He died when I was very young, but I still hear stories about how so many villages would invite him to their ...

"Lauga" Faafetai i se Faaipoipoga Here's an example of a lauga faafetai ("faafetai") at a typical LDS - or any other - wedding reception in an LDS cultural hall - or other setting. I have tried to present it in a more inclusive approach, and it can be modified to fit a particular occasion, setting or format.

The welcome speech (lauga o le feiloaiga), delivered to the members of a malaga upon their arrival in the village, represents the most important of the many speeches the talking chief may be called upon to give. If he is an able and knowledgeable speaker, he will of course know that the speech should have five parts.
